Matthew Smith ordered Microsoft Exchange for its mobile features and won a 16 GB Apple iPhone 3G.

CHICAGO, Illinois, October 10 2008— Hostway Corporation, the global Web services leader, announced the third and final winner of the hosted Exchange Triple Giveaway promotion. Exchange customer Matthew Smith won Apple's latest Exchange-compatible smart phone, the iPhone 3G.

Smith works full time as a sales manager for Ricoh Business Solutions and raises horses with his wife on the side. He ordered Exchange hosting to use mainly in his sales manager position.

"It helps me sync my Lotus Notes to my PDA. I always have access to my email and my calendar," said Smith.

Hosted Microsoft Exchange offers enterprise-level messaging with anywhere access to email, shared calendars and contact lists, plus task lists that allow managers to create, assign and delegate tasks among their team. Apple designed the iPhone 3G to better integrate with Microsoft Exchange's ActiveSync software for mobile devices making the phone even more attractive to business users.

Hostway's Triple Giveaway was designed to give customers a chance to experience all the mobile functionality included in Exchange on the iPhone 3G, a cutting-edge wireless device just released in July. The promotion included three prize drawings during a three-month period. While no purchase was necessary, customers who ordered five or more Exchange accounts between June 17, 2008 and September 17, 2008 were automatically entered to win.
